THE SATIONAL REPUBLICAN HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION THAN ANY OTHER MORNING PAPER IN THE DISTRICT OF CO-

Nor only his cotempor ries on the floor of the ex-Confederate House, but the Democratic press generally, beg Mr. Ben Hill to keep his mouth shut. Poor Mr. Hill! Like a city canine in dog days, he chafes under his muzzle. THE Baltimore Gazette declares that, with

"of Jeff. Davis' Cabinet never had been "heard of before he called them, and they 'never have been heard of since." Now, what has become of Mr. Reagan, of Texas? Has he or has he not been, or is he yet to be heard from? FLOYD, Thompson, Toucey and Cobb. Score four infamous Cabinet officers chargeable to the Democratic party, none of whom were punished, but all of whom, after their infamy became known, were honored by the Democracy. Against this score Belknap as the only Cabinet officer guilty of maiversation chargeable to the Republican party, and he is on his way to merited punishment. The comparison speaks for itself.

THE tales about Attorney General Piercepont's interference with the trial of General Babcock are repeated in our telegraphic dispatches this morning, and credited to the St. Louis Times. The dispatch is adroitly written for the purpose of conveying the impression that the statements i contains are published by the authority of District Attorney Dyer. An intelligent public however, will at once see through the thin disguise which envelopes this revamp of an exploded slander and disca. a ; as unreliable at once.

IN THE INTEREST of justice, and to serve the integrity of the Republican party, nothing should be left undone to secure the return from Canada of C. P. Marsh, the fugitive accomplice witness in the Belknap case. As the inspiring genius of that great national scandal, and the violator of the obligations of a friendship which permitted him to play the part of host to an invalid lady, he is doubly guilty. By all means, let him be returned to this country without delay. It is true that his presence is not essential to the prosecution of Belknap, but the ends of justice will fail of complete accomplishment unless he is punished.

Now THAT Belknap's disgrace is known the world over, the wiseacres are beginning to find fault with President Grant as a poor judge of human nature. Not one of them, however, that did not believe a week ago that General Belknap was a man of the strictest integrity. In fact, Mr. Heister Clymer, the chairman of the committee through which the exposure was made, and a Princeton classmate of the disgraced Secretary, did not doubt his integrity, nor did any of his former acquaintances and associates-not even those who were more intimate with him than. under the circumstances, the President could have been. So much for "stair-case wisdom.

IT was been stated that nearly all of the so-called Republican Senators who oppose the scating Mr. Pinchback owe their election to the improper use of money. Some of these men are blatant Radicals at home, and it is only when they reach the Capitol that they affect to be Conservative and turn up their noses at men who happen to have colored blood in their veins. There as not a single State south of the Potomac where Mr. Pinchback's influence is not considerable. We trust he will spend his summer in a thorough canvass of the South and advise Republicans to keep at home some of the men who so grossly misrepresent them here. Pinchback can well look with contempt upon the men who were elected by negro votes, and now opnose him because he happens not to be SECRETARY FISH's defense of Minister Schenck is one of those things that must puzzle some of the Independent Press, in the columns of which we habitually find warm approval of his every act. The truth is that the Secretary pursues the even tenor of his way undisturbed by either praise or condemnation from such sources, and now it will make no difference to him that, in the performance of a duty toward a persecuted official, he has incurred the quiet disfavor of those who should be ranked among his political enemies. Among this class we are glad to enumerate the New York Tribune, which, while it invariably accords to Mr. Fish the statesmanlike char acteristics of strict integrity and far-sightedness, denounces General Schenck as a disreputable stock-jobber. Of course, all this very inconsistent, but what does the Tribune care for consistency?

"GENERAL BELKNAP'S disgrace," says the New York Tribune, 'came like the "shadow of a great rock in a weary land "to the harassed Democracy. The outlook "in New Hampshire is very different from "what it was two days ago." Perhaps this is true and perhaps it is not. One week from to-morrow will tell the tale. Meanwhile the New Hampshire voters will have recovered from the shock occasioned by the Belknap exposure, and have had time to reflect that the fall of one man cannot carry with it the cause he has disgraced. The war record of Marcy, the Democratic candidate for Governor taken in connection with the political record already made by the ex Confederate House and the general stagnation of labor interests, will be sufficient to arouse them to a due appreciation of the real situation. That is all that is necessary to insure Republican success.

"DEMOCRACY may be dangerous, true " but it is not tilthy with bribes and steal "ings," says the New York Tribune. A sufficient answer to this contemptible and false adulation of the Democracy may be found in the files of the Tribune itself, when it was acknowledged to be the leading journal of the anti Democratic elements of the country, and when Mr. Greeley devoted himself and the resources of that journal to the exposure of the colossal frauds of the Democracy. The public has not forgotten those frauds, if the present management or mismanagement of the Tribune has. Further, it has not forgotten that the Democracy still retains in power the associates and apologists of Jeff. Davis, Toombs, Floyd, Thompson, Cobb, Toucey and others of like kidney. The flunkeyism which induces the Tribune at this late day to eat its own words by allying itself with the Opposition is made glaringly apparent by the trials now progressing within earshot, almost, of the Tall Tower for the Auditor, to devise any other than one or recovery of the millions of dollars stolen by

Boss Tweed, from the city of New York. | hopeless, for the unterrified Democracy of | into Congress prohibiting masquerade balls "Not filthy with bribes and stealings," forsooth! Why, the Tribune is sustained and supported solely by the largess of a plundering, stock jobbing Democratic ring.

THE New York World and other journals of like kidney proclaim the opinion that the Democratic party is not responsible for the robberies committed by Boss Tweed. Governor Tilden, however, testified last week, under the solemn obligations of an oath, that while he held the position of chairman of the New York State Democratic Executive Committee he received from Tweed subscriptions for Democratic campaign funds. In other words, while Tweed stole millions from the people, he devoted a portion of his plunder to the support of the Democracy. Here is proof of direct connection between the Democratic party and the greatest thief of modern times. We refer to these facts particularly at this juncture to show the difference between Tweed's case and that of Mr. Belknap, the latter of whom has been guilty of a comparatively insignificant crime, the proceeds of which found their way into his private coffers, and not into the electioneering funds of the party he has disgraced. We submit that the difterence is appreciable. the exception of Mr. Benjamin, the "men

OUR EARS are now regaled with the annual wail of the self-styled "taxpayers." This country will never have a proper respect for itself until it ceases to have in such terrible awe the holder of the title to a little real property. Mr. W. H. Clagett told the House Committee on the District of Columbia on Saturday most commisseratingly that a poor $1,000 clerk could have meat to eat but twice a week. But he did not tell them why. He did not say that the real estate owners added the taxes to the rents twice over and compelled the poor clerk to pay $50 to $75 per month rent for six to eight-room houses in eligible portions of the city. That would have been admitting the fact that the occupant and not the owner is the real taxpayer. And Mr. Clagett don't want any but owners to have a voice in the manner of collection and the species of property which shall pay the tax. The occupant is the payer of the tax, and the owner is simply the channel through which it flows into the Treasury.

THE Jones family is numerous in Georgia.

There are Jenks Jones and Tom Jones, and any number of Joneses, but it is of the late State Treasurer Jones that we speak in als paragraph. Somes became Treasurer of Georgia in 1873. He catered into a straw bong to the State in the sum of $100. 000. He had not been in office exceeding six months before things began to look suspicious, but, as he was a good Democrat, of course, he was allowed ample latitude, and soon expained matters to the satisfaction of his friends. Some months since Gov. Snith discovered that the Georgia Treasury was depleted, and when a Legislatiw Committee examined into the matter they found that nearly a half million dellars had taken wings and flown into Mr. Jones' pockets. Did the Legislature impeach Mr. Jones? Not a bit of it. He was simply required by the Governor to give a new bond, and, failing in this, his successor was appointed. In a letter to a Georgia newspaper Ben H. Hill declared his belief in the innocence of the defaulting Treasurer, and expressed his willingness to defend him before the Courts, and in the Legislature if necessary. In Georgia a Democrat cannot be guilty of a theft, and, at most, is only guilty of "carelessness." But the conduct of Belknap will be heralded all over that State as typical of Republican officials in power. Relknap will, doubtless, be tried and conviced for his crimes; but if the expose had occurred under Democratic administration he would have escaped Scott free, as did Kleptemaniac Floyd and the dishonest Jones, of Georgia.

10 THE SENATE. Not only is the Senate of the United States the bulwark of the Republic, standing aloof and proof against the waves of sudden political passion which sometimes overwhelm the lower House, but just now it is the bulwark of the Republican party, and will soon be called upon to rescue that party from the disgrace inflicted upon it by a trusted and honored official. In view of this fact the Opposition has already begun, by means of innuendoes in the press and occult manipulations, to build up a feeling in the Senate against the trial, or, in the event of a trial, against the conviction of ex Secretary Belknap on the charges and specifications of his impeachment by the House. The object of this attempt is plain enough. It it should succeed the cry would be instantly raised that the Republican majority in that body had interfered to save a self-confessed corruptionist from deserved punishment. "Forewarned is forearmed." and, while it is not probable that the Senate needs to be warned against this impending danger, no harm can follow from its utterance. No fair-minded man will demand that the unfortunate ex-Secretary shall be offered as a party sacrifice, or that he shall be cruelly persecuted. At the same time, the integrity of the party demands that justice shall not be tempered with heedless or uncircumspect mercy in

HOW VIRGINIA IS KEPT POOR.

Just what Locofoco misrule is doing for old Virginia may be seen by a glance at the following estimate of receipts and disburse ments for the fiscal year 1876. The estimate is furnished the Legislature by the Auditor of Public Accounts:

"Amount due the banks for temporary loans $200,000; amount due the Miller fund for temporary loans, $36,000; total, $336,000. Amount estimated for expenses of government to De-cember 1, 1876, $736,489.05; amount of reve-nue of 1875 yet due to public free school purnue of 1875 yet due to public free school pur-poses, $368,000; amount of arrearages of rev-enue of 1870-71-72-73-74 yet due to public free school purposes, $409,000; total, $1,749,-489,05. Estimated receipts of revenue in cur-rency from the 24th of February to the 1st of December, 1876, will be $$97,755.73, while the disbursements for the same period will be $1,749,489.05; showing a deficit of $851,953.32."

This estimate, it will be perceived, shows no provision for the payment of interest on $48,000,000 of indebtedness contracted before and since the war by the Locofoco party of that State. It will be seen that the public schools, an institution not congenial with Locofoco domination, and one they would eliminate from the constitution if they dared, is likely to be the greatest sufferer by this deficit. Plans and contrivances for realizing a sufficiency of money to carry on the State government are at this time bothering the heads of the wiseacres in the Legislature, some of whom have been placed there because of the aptitude of their friends at ballot-box stuffing, and with as little fitness for the position as Dana, of the New York Sun, possesses for the enjoyment of vital piety. The expedients that are daily being invented in that body for escaping from the dilemma in which Locofocoism and ostracism for opinion's sake has plunged the State are as multifarious as the hues of the rainbow. The Auditor attempts to cut the Gordian knot after this manner : "It will be, of course, a matter of anxiou inquiry how the deficit can be provided for. Were the question propounded directly to me I should unhesitatingly answer that there are only two modes known to me by which it can be effected. First, by an increase of the rate of tax upon the value of land and property in the State; or second, by a stamp tax upon the consumption of whisky."

Should the Legislature fail, with the the other of the "two modes," then indeed that most eminent apostle of Democracy, do things look gloomy, if not altogether the Old Dominion. To tax the lands of before another sun had set. the State, worn out and untillable, more than they now have to bear would be burdensome to the agricultural interest, an interest that should be fostered rather than oppressed, and which would not fail to act astrously upon the future prospects of the Democracy, who have so long ruled but to ruin the Commonwealth. The other proposition-"a stamp tax on the consumption of whisky"-will be far worse for the welfare of the Democracy, and would provoke the immediate downfall of the organization in Virginia. They might be induced to stand a tax on bread, the staff of life, but when it infringes on whisky, which the average Democrat esteems as "life itself," they will none of it. It is passing strange that the Auditor, with a full knowledge of this fact before him, had the temerity to even suggest such a thing. He is evidently preparing to quit his office. It is unfortu nate that this official did not inform the Legislature in detail how and to whom the stamps he proposes were to be applied, whether to the vender or consumer; if to the latter, it would take but a brief period to stamp out the whole Democratic party of the State.

Virginia wants emigration. To get it the emigrants must needs travel; yet a Daniel, who came near being elected to the United States Senate, "has come to judgment." and, not content with the Auditor's prescription, has seriously proposed a "traveling tax" on every passenger who shall pass over any of the public railways or canals of the State. This states. man has, however, designated in his the unfortunates shall pass, as the collectors of the tax, so that no fears need be entertained by those who propose to enter or pass through the State of having a stamp affixed to their nasal protuberances. A member of the House of Delegates, with evident purpose to repress the wickedness of the Democracy, has introduced a measure that has been denominated a "cursing bill," for the purpose of raising revenue by grading blasphemous oaths, and assessing fines against the perpetrators thereof commensurate with the enormity of the offense. There is no doubt that if this bill passes, and the tax it imposes was collected, it would suffice to pay the debt, principal and interest, in a very short space of time; but if the Scriptural prerequisite to the collection theory, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone' be applied to the collectors, the Democracy would be forced to the dire necessity of going into the ranks of the opposition party to find the necessary revenue offi-Therefore they will not be likely to

Badinage aside, matters are growing serious in Virginia. Democratic before the war, almost uniformly, she has had the misfortune ever since the rehabilitation of the same party that plunged her into rebellion, and now we see the result of this continued misrule in a mountain-load of debt, and her resources undeveloped by reason of the dog-in-the-manger policy of her Locofoco rulers, who, unable to develop them without outside aid, have, by a most unwise and suicidal method of proscription of political opponents, prevented what she most needed, viz: an influx of capital and skilled labor. Her politicians are greatly, if not altogether, responsible for her present embarrassed position. They have spent the years in howlings about "Radicalism," and in maudlin lamentations over her sister States of the South, that were under the rule of Republicanism, that might better have been expended in the exercise of a wise and conciliatory policy looking to the weltare of their own State, until now not one of the States upon which their sympathies were wasted is not in a far better pecu niary condition than their own. There is a moral to be deduced from all this, that the people, if not the politicians, of Virginia, will do well to make a practical application of, and that is to thrust aside, as they would any impediment to their per sonal success in life, the pestilent brood of politicians who have so greatly contributed to Virginia's undoing in the past, and who nowstand in the way of her attaining the high position among the States that her almost unlimited agricultural and mineral resources entitle her to. Let her people, for the time being at least, forget there ever was such a curse upon the State as Locofocoism, called by courtesy, Democracy or Conservativism, and by concert o action with Northern men and Republi cans now within their borders, seek the emigration the Democracy affect to want and which in the present necessitous con dition of the State is so greatly needed and then, when an installment of them i received, weat them well, open the doors of your houses to such of them as are worthy, or, in other words, against whom you can have no other cause of complaint than their adherence to the principles of the Republican party. Do this, and refrain from stuffing ballot-boxes at the behest of a party that has already well-nigh ruined the State, and soon the debt will be

There is something exceedingly touching in the sight of Dio Lewis turning on his pillow, while sick with dyspepsia, and saying to an attendant, "My friend, eat grits and cream three times a day and you will be able to throw an elephant over your shoulders every morning before breakfast." "Yes, yes," returned the attendant, "but who will furnish the elephants ?" Dio did not say.

Jack is in the Democratic pulpit to-day. Tall-grown, amply-robed, funeral-faced, with piously uplifted eyes and solemn voice he thanks a merciful Heaven that he is not as other men are-as, for instance, that poor fallen, disgraced Republican. The truth is however, that to day there are Democrats in Congress whose seats were purchased either money or obtained through intimidation and fraud.

Caleb Marsh is like the magician's button, "Now you see it, and now you don't." He remained in his native land, after showing pretty clearly that he could not tell a lie, until he learned that the way behind the bars was opened to him for giving bribes; then he suddenly made up his mind to visit some friends in Canada. Take Marsh. Robinson and Armes. and really the investigating committee have nothing to feel proud of respecting their char-acters as witnesses and informers of good standing in the community.

Capt. Robinson, the man who attempted to take upon himself all the glory and responsibility of the Belknap exposure, has a remarkable record. He was a captain in the Tenth cavairy, and was arraigned before a general court-martial at St. Louis, October 23, 1874, and convicted of drawing double pay, and false charges for goods and medical practice, and bill the companies over whose lines also of perjury. This was his experience in tillitary life. In his civil life he has mad himself quite as conspicuous. On January 6, 1874, he registered at the Washington house, in this city, and after spending a few days de parted without paying his bills. He left in his room a satchel containing the following valuable and interesting items : Seven old newspapers, I won-out necktie, I brass button, bottle of wortaless mucilage, and a receipt for a Remington rife belonging to the State of Maryland. This is the man who howls loudly his connection with the recent criminal devel opments. He wants people to know, sir, that he, sir, did it all, sir; yes sir. A man whose record is so tarnished with crime and shame ought to have common sense enough to sink into and remain in obscurity. He, at least, ought not to seek conspicuity.

On the 29th day of December, 1860, John I Floyd tendered his resignation as Secretary o War to James Buchanan, Democratic Presi dent of the United States, and old "P. F.," appreciating the imminent danger in which the robber and his confrares Howest Cono, Sec retary of the Treasury; Jacob Thompson, Secretary of the Interior, and the others of his Cabinet-then stood, did not stop to ask the whys" or the "wherefores," but, true to all Democratic precedent, accepted John's resignation and allowed him to cross over into Dixie, there to join his brother thieves and traitors, and with them divide the proceeds of her State government in 1869 to cling to their numerous and stupendous robberies of United States moneys and other property. On the 27th of the month following Floyd was presented by the grand jury at Washington, D. C., for maladministration of office, for complicity in the theft of $830,000, Indian bonds, but as the theif, by the aid of his friend, the Democratic President, (old P. F., ) had made good his escape, and rebellion had immediately thereafter raised its murderous hand against the Government, the indictment against the thief and his followers was, in the horror of the tumultuous time, forgotten and swallowed up in the more important duty of organizing armies for the preservation of the integrity of the Union, the dismemberment of which was now being sought by the very men whose maladministration of and misfeasance in their several offices as members of the President's Cabinet had but a day or two before been made known to the world.
